THE GENIE is published quarterly. Each member receives four issues for each year of membership. All material published in THE GENIE is compiled and contributed by the members. THE GENIE exchanges periodicals with other genealogical-historical organizations publishing data of general interest. We regret that we cannot exchange with limited family organizations, but invite them to send samples of their publications for brief review, since many of these family organizations are of a great value in information on the family covered by them.

All members of the staff of THE GENIE are volunteers.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

As president, I want to welcome you to a brand new year in genealogy, one I believe will be greater than the last. There were a great number of projects we were unable to take care of in 1993. With your help, let's make a new start in 1994. It's always good to touch on the activities that were successful and plan them again this year and even do it better and smoother. The officers are preparing the way for a great seminar in August. These early starts will make it easier to manage and all the time expecting greater success. I do believe the membership was pleased in 1993. Dr. Eakle's program was as good as they come. For 1994, we are proud to announce the coming of Mrs. Helen F. M. Leary, C.G. of North Carolina. For those who have not had the privilege of hearing Mrs. Leary, know you are in for a treat. I am especially pleased with the outlines that she has for presentation, and she keeps to these outlines, making it easy to follow. Before we have the August seminar, we are going to have a great many opportunities to learn of new methods for your search. I believe the members experienced in family history are ready to learn some new methods. Classes this year, I believe, could be directed to advanced levels, while helping beginners also. For those of you that have asked for advanced classes, let's look into ways we could provide these classes being taught by our own membership. Those of you who have indicated to me subject matter you believe needs to be taught, prepare a lesson and use it at a club meeting. We have always believed we must continue to learn new methods. Let's do that.

Our quarterly, "The Genie", has enjoyed a great year in 1993, with all publications being prepared and delivered before deadlines through the efforts of our competent editor, Mrs. Ethel Krause. She will be expecting you to continue supplying her with printable materials. I am glad to announce that she has the "Table of Contents Index to the Genie 1967-1993" completed to include the year 1993. A printing is planned very soon. This will be in your hands for future use. Computor technology has made it possible to accomplish genealogy in a rapid manner with the development of various helpers in forms and indexes. Your ancestor charts being published in the Genie, has served a purpose of letting others know your surnames. Let's make use of our computer database. Send a stamped self-addressed envelope and we will try to make contacts for you by supplying others looking for the same names that you are looking for.

Do you get the idea? This year, I will make an effort to get the most from the membership. Keep me informed in areas I am lacking and I promise you a 1994 you will not forget.

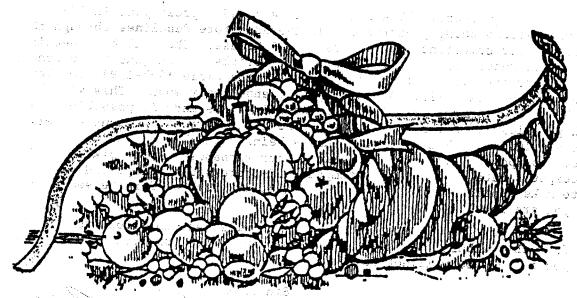

Victor C. Rose, President

Sincerely, Autor C. Rase

1994 National Genealogical Society Conference in the States

Join your fellow genealogists in Houston at the NGS Conference in the States — for learning, networking, and fun.

The program will offer something for everyone with sessions that focus on history, records and repositories, immigration and naturalization, migration patterns, land records, religious groups, methodology and problem-solving, organization of materials, the use of computers in genealogy, and much more. Special emphasis will be on the building of America by its ethnic groups and Native Americans.

Research opportunities abound!
The Clayton Library is one of the nation's major genealogical libraries.
The Houston Public Library also offers the Houston Metropolitan Archives and the Texas and Local History Department. Other research facilities in the Houston area include collections at several universities—
Rice, the University of Houston,
Houston Baptist, and Texas

I WAS A WORLD WAR I DOUGHBOY

By John H. Rose, Jr.

(Written in the early 1920's based on notes and memory of his military service. Editorial help furnished by his son-in-law, Lester L. Loftin, Sr., in the late 1950's. Foot soldiers (Infantrymen) of World War I are often referred to as "Doughboys". Private Rose participated, along with approximately 1,200,000 fellow Americans, in the largely American Meuse-Argonne Offensive Action that cracked the heavily fortified German Hindenburg Line. The overall German morale deteriorated rapidly thereafter, thus making possible the signing of the Armistice on November 11, 1918. One out of ten American soldiers were either killed or seriously wounded in this action. Service Record: Meuse-Argonne Offensive 9/26 - 11/3/18. Left USA 8/22/18, arrived USA 5/1/19. Under G.O. 31/12 W.D. or G. O. 45/14 W.D. served with Co. A 142 M.G. Br. 10/22/18, Co. C 320 M.G. Br. 10/22/18 to 5/6/19 C.D. L.W. 5/6/19 to 5/16/19.

This article was submitted by John Rose's son Victor C. Rose, our association President.)

Excuse my expressions and I will try to tell you some of my experiences while serving 364 days in the United States Army during World War I. My army life began when I was drafted on May 27, 1918 at Shreveport, Louisiana and ended when I was discharged at Camp Shelby, Mississippi, May 16, 1919.

In the first place, I am not going to tell you all that I experienced, or all that I did while in the Army because it would take a lifetime to do so. I am going to tell you some of the more important things that happened to me, and some of the things that happened to me which I thought to be uncalled for or to be unreasonable.

On May 24, 1918, I received a notice from the War Department that my draft number had been drawn. I was directed to be on hand at the City Hall, Shreveport, Louisiana at 7:30 a.m. May 27 to leave by train for some unknown army camp along with about 400 additional draftees.

After reporting, we got orders on what we could or could not do while on the train while enroute to our army camp. We were then lined up in columns of two and marched from the City Hall to the Union Railway Depot. After a few minutes to tell my pregnant wife, "Rosalie", other loved ones and friends good-bye, we boarded the L.R.N. Railway Train.

We pulled out of the train station having no idea where we were going or when we would get to see home again. By observing the direction we were going we had an idea that we were headed for Camp Beauregard, located just north of Alexandria, Louisiana. We picked up a number of boys on the way at the towns of Campti and Coushatta, Louisiana. After riding for six hours we arrived at Camp Beauregard.

At Camp Beauregard, they lined us up in a single column and passed us through an open shed. The first thing I did was sign my name; and, by the way, this was the last thing I did before I got out of the Army. They then placed yellow tags around our necks. This was the first time in my life that I ever recall being tagged like a milk cow. I couldn't understand why they didn't put a green one on me, for that was what I was. After getting a bologna and cheese sandwich and a cup of salty lemonade for dinner, they took us over to the personnel office, where I signed a half dozen more papers. After this, they gave us physical examinations. Of course, I passed. There were very few of our group that didn't. Some of the men complained that they were deaf, but they could hear before they got through examining them. After we had gone through about six more buildings, and signing more papers, it was 2:30 a.m. We then hiked, what seemed to me, about a mile to some tents for some sleep.

At 8:00 a.m. I got up and found out that I had been placed in Company L, 156 Infantry, 39th Division, U. S. Army. After a so-called breakfast of stew we went out to drill. We drilled each day in the clothes we wore to camp and without guns because Camp Beauregard, to this date, had not been furnished these items. My civilian shoes made my feet mighty sore.

After three days of drilling and with a hypodermic shot each day, they lined up up in our street and told us that some "Big Shot" Army Officers were coming around to look us over. We didn't know what was going to happen. These men came along the line, looked over each man, and picked out the men they wanted by placing their hand on the shoulder of a selected man and then pulling him forward out of the line. Of course, I was one of them. Some of the boys said they were going to send us across the "Pond" (Atlantic Ocean); some said that we were being picked for the suicide (machine gun) squads. The suicide squads were known to get bumped off very quick when in battle. Well, as I expected, we were banded into the 142nd Machine Gun Battalion, 39th Division, and were issued uniforms.

The suicide squads caught hell thereafter. We would have to get up at six o'clock each morning, sweep out our tents, make up our bunks, and clean our street by seven o'clock. At breakfast we had tin plates to eat out of and had to line up to get our grub (food); that is us buck privates (draftees). The non-coms (corporals and sergeants) sat down at tables and had their's brought to them in china dishes. The commissioned officers (lieutenants, captains, etc.) in addition to having china dishes, had their's in individual dining rooms.

Our non-com officers were made up mostly of Cajuns (Acadian French) and Whops (Italians) from the Louisiana National Guard and were toughened up by about twenty years of service. We, being from north Louisiana and being fresh draftees were looked down on and referred to as "North Louisiana Red Neck Hillbillies".

Our Captain (Chandler), a graduate of West Point, was "hard as a rock". He had a voice you could hear a mile away. I don't remember much of my Lieutenants; but, I do remember, they were about as hard. Oh, but when it comes to our Major (Harrison), he told us he had a heart of iron before we came; but, for us, it had just turned to steel. It didn't take him long to prove his point. I almost forgot to say that the Major had one cork leg and evidently was born in an army barrack.

After getting together in a YMCA building, the Major gave us a long lecture telling us what he had done with other recruits and what he was going to do with us. Just some of the remarks he made — "I have just turned out a bunch of good soldiers, but I am going to make you the best damn bunch I have ever turned out. I have instructed my non-coms to drill you all until your tongues hang out, and if you fall out of line, you had better fall out deader than hell, or you will spend the rest of your life in our guard-house". He made plenty more remarks like these and, of course, we being only rookie recruits were scared to death. Nevertheless, when he got through with us, we were all ready to jump into a fire if he so ordered.

Our drill hours started at eight o'clock each morning. Usually, we would take a hike to Alexandria, which was about seven miles from our camp. We would hike there and return without taking a rest. We had to stay in line all the way or get bawled out. We would then drill at camp until twelve o'clock noon. We would take time out to eat our stew, and then get back out and drill until 4:30 p.m. They gave us about half an hour to change our uniforms and get cleaned up for a five o'clock retreat. We would have to be in top-notch shape or go to the guard-house or serve on some work detail. We would have supper at 6 p.m. and then at 7:00 p.m., we would go back out and drill until 8:30 p.m. After all of this, we were ready to go anywhere including the firing line across the Pond.

I will break off here for a while to show what we had to contend with. While we were out drilling, the water in the bath houses would be on, and when we came in, they would usually cut it off for some reason unknown to us. Even at night, we didn't have enough water to bathe in; however, after "Taps" there was always plenty of water.

We did practice a little with the Vickers (British) Machine Gun. Then it came time for us to leave Camp Beauregard. Our Major again gave us a good talk. We knew more how to take him by now. This time he talked about what we were going to do overseas, including himself. He also asked if there was anyone present that did not want to cross the "Pond", and, if there were, for them to stand up. Not a single person moved. The Major and the Captain were already standing. However, I noticed that they didn't sit down. I am sure, if anyone had stood up, the Major would have sent them direct to the firing lines. If I was in the Major's place, I would have done the same.

I will mention that none of us received passes home during our stay at Camp Beauregard, or before we went overseas. A few of us got passes to nearby Alexandria, Louisiana. The dollar-a-day pay we got came in handy.

On the 9th of August, we got our orders to have all of our equipment ready to be taken to the railway train. We were glad to hear this, for we were really ready to get out of this place. I will say that we were convinced that Camp Beauregard was the worst army camp in the United States. We got on the train on the 10th of August. They came around and gave us orders first, not to get off the train; second, no notes to people outside the train; and third, not to tell anyone where we were going or where we were from. Well, we couldn't tell them where we were going for we didn't have the least idea.

We were pretty sure that we were headed for the "Pond" and the "Old Country". At first, we were afraid to move out of our seats. This lasted until about dark, when we got a little braver and talked to people outside the train window. Our first stop was at Ruston, Louisiana. Then we knew that we were on the Rock Island Railroad Line. This is where we began to send postal cards and letters to our loved ones at home.

Sunday morning, the 11th of August at seven o'clock, we were at Little Rock, Arkansas. Here we had breakfast on the train in the railroad yard. After eating, we got off the train and paraded, military-style, on several streets. We pulled out from Little Rock, after staying there about two hours. On the 12th of August, we were at Memphis, Tennessee. Here we left the train and went to the YMCA building to take a bath. This was some place! It had a swimming pool about 75 to 100 feet long and all kinds of gymnastic equipment. We moved on after about three hours. We eventually passed into the Blue Grass State of Kentucky and stopped at Bowling Green. This is the first place that we were treated extra nice. The people at the railway station gave us ice cream and fruit.

We carried our own kitchen car as part of the train and the grub was passed to us through the cars so we would not have to get out of our seats. We passed a number of troop trains heading in the opposite direction - we thought this to be very odd. On the 13th of August, we were at Louisville, Kentucky. From here we crossed over into the State of Ohio at Cincinnati. We didn't get out of our seats, however, we threw our mail out the train windows to people at the station to mail for us. From Ohio we eventually arrived in the State of New York. There is one small town in New York I will never forget. It had a population of about 5,000. I was on guard on my coach at this place while the rest of the boys paraded, military-style, on the main streets of the town. After they came back to the station, they received ice cream, cake, fruit and candy. I was glad that I was on guard duty this day for I received double portions of the eats.

After traveling about three miles from this place, we discovered that some of the boys had been left behind. We then side -tracked and unloaded. Just off the railroad we took a bath in the Black River, that was about three feet deep with a rocky bottom. There we waited until a freight train came through with the rest of the boys.

The next important place we made was Jersey City, New Jersey. Here is where I did something I had never done before. We all had to get buckets and rags and wash down the sides of the Pullman cars. Here, I also saw for my first time a few lady engineers, brakemen and switchmen working in the railroad yard.

From here we crossed over the Hudson River to Long Island, New York. After sitting around on the curb for about an hour, we then took the Long Island Interurban Train to Camp Mills at Garden City, New York. Here we had to turn in our shoes, khaki clothes, and were issued overseas clothes; that is, hobnail shoes, O.D. uniforms, and blankets. We were all supposed to get passes of, at least, two to four days to New York City. This was started and lasted only a few days. My pass began at twelve o'clock noon one day and ended at noon the next day. Well, 24 hours was a short length of time to look over a place the size of New York City. It took two hours to get there and two to get back, so there were 20 hours left for sight-seeing. I didn't know where to go after I got there. The first thing I did was get lost. I didn't let anyone know I was lost until I had walked myself down and it was getting late. While lost, I went through China Town, Jew town and goodness knows, what other towns. I knew if I could get to 43rd Street and Broadway Avenue, I would know where I was, so I caught a taxi cab to this point. It was then about eleven o'clock p.m., so I decided to take in a show. I went to the window to buy a ticket and the lady wouldn't let me pay. She said, "go on in soldier - we take care of our Doughboys", with a pleasing voice.

After seeing the show, it was about one o'clock. I sent a telegram home. I went to the York Hotel to get a bed. All that was left was a bed in the parlor, so I took it. I got up about eight o'clock the next morning and made my way to the Pennsylvania Depot to catch a train back to camp. On arrival at camp, I was ordered to pack up my gear to go to Hoboken, New Jersey, where we would board a ship to cross the "Pond". As we were pulling away from Long Island to cross the river to Hoboken, tears came in my eyes because I realized that if we crossed the "Pond" we would probably never see the United States again.

On the 21st of August, a few of us loaded all of our company's equipment onto a large Dutch freighter, the Ryndam, that was to carry us overseas. Here, I also saw the largest and fastest ship on the waters, the captured German ship, the Vaterland. It was being loaded up with American Aviators and their supplies.

After we had loaded all of our freight, the rest of our company arrived. We were handed a postal card stating that we had arrived safely on the other side of the ocean. We were instructed to sign and address them to anyone we wanted to. They said they were not going to mail them until we had arrived safely overseas. We all then went aboard the Ryadam. This ship was about 400 feet long, had seven decks, seven hatches, and was loaded to the brim with men and freight of all descriptions. There were about 4,000 men aboard that included about 600 blacks.

We pulled out of the harbor sometime in the night. The morning of the 22nd, we were out at sea. There were seven ships in our convoy at daybreak and along in the afternoon we picked up seven more. After about two days out, the boys began to get sick. They couldn't eat, and all they could do was feed the fish. Fortunately, I managed not to have to do this, either going over or coming back, but I felt mighty bad at times. What would worry me was that we could not sit down anyplace. If we went on top deck, they would make us move back to our assigned quarters. My 23rd birthday was on the 23rd of August, with nothing special happening.

It is needless to say that all we saw was water, water and more water, which was making our trip very dull. Nevertheless, we got our first German Submarine attack on August 26th. The ship began ringing its bells, which was the signal for a submarine attack. I really got scared. After we got out on deck, one of the big guns on our ship was fired, I assume, at the submarine. It shook the whole ship and jarred some so hard they bumped their heads. No one saw the submarine and eventually the all-clear signal was given.

We had to sleep with our life belts on and were told that if we were caught without one we would be subject to Court-Martial. We never took our clothes or shoes off the whole trip. We were given a small ration of four boxes of hardtack and a number one can of cornbeef to eat in case our ship was sunk and we managed to survive. We were warned not to eat the ration while on ship because this was also a reason for Court-Martial. We hardly had anything to eat on the ship, so some of us did eat the ration. We never heard anything of a Court-Martial.

We thought we would never see land again, but on the third day of September, we caught sight of a lighthouse in the distance. About twelve o'clock we pulled into the harbor of Brest, France. We were unable to land at the docks because they were filled with ships. The first thing we saw was a ship loaded with wounded American soldiers headed back to the States. They were gassed, shell-shocked, some with no legs or arms, their heads tied up and, goodness knows what else. This made our blood curdle and all of us were very anxious to get revenge on the (curses) lowdown Krauts (Germans) that did this to our fellow Americans.

After anchoring out in the harbor, the approximately 600 blacks were unloaded first onto small boats and taken ashore. Things were getting very hot for them on the ship. There had been several fights between the whites and blacks while we were crossing the ocean, which resulted in a rumor that some of the blacks had been thrown overboard. Eventually, everyone except about 200 were moved ashore. You guessed it, I was among the remaining 200. We were detailed to unload the ship with about 28 men assigned to each hatch. All the supplies had to be unloaded to barges and pulled to the docks. We had everything on board, including such items as cigarettes, aspirins and automobiles. We were allowed to go ashore after spending three days unloading the ship.

The city of Brest is one of the oldest seaports in France. In the early 1800's, Napoleon Bonaparte stationed part of his army here, when France was at war with England. Brest is mostly on a high hill of brown rock. To get up this hill, you have to keep winding through narrow, rocky alleys. Shortly after hiking past Napoleon's old army barracks on a rocky road, we stopped at what they called a rest camp. All I could see was just an old field that had just been harvested. We entered on one corner and came back out this same corner. There was no fence around it, but it was encircled by bushes trimmed as we do hedges that substituted for a fence. We pitched our pup tents in this so called rest area the best we could. The thing that worried us most was when were we going to get something to eat or drink. We needed food and water more than we needed rest. This is where I had my shoes off officially the first time since August 20th, a period of 18 days. We also had no bath during this 18 day period. We stayed here until 2:30 a.m., the morning of September 9th.

From here on we moved mostly at night. After hiking several miles over some more rocky roads, we were loaded into railway cars. These cars were nothing like the ones we have back in the States. They were about 30 feet long with sliding windows on each side and a narrow sliding door. They were called the "40 and 8" box cars, which were designed to hold either "40 men" or "8mules". There was nothing but the floor to sit or sleep on. The wheels were made of three pieces of curved steel welded together. There were no springs. The rails were evidently made of a poor grade of steel and were narrow gauge. The railway roadbeds were also poor. We could not understand how any railway car could stay on these tracks when in travel.

In travel, we slept half the time, laying down on the floor and half the time standing up. All of us couldn't lay down at the same time. Some would stand up as long as they could, or until they tumbled on top of the ones laying down. We were given a ration of one #6 can of corned beef and several #2 cans of tomatoes for each "40 and 8" railway car. We had to throw away part of this because the contents had spoiled. This was our loss and we weren't given replacements. We traveled under these miserable conditions for three days and two nights.

We finally came to our getting-off place near Clermont, which is just north of Paris. Here, we were housed in barn lofts of the local farmers. They treated us very nice. We stayed in this place until October 21st. Then we hiked about eight miles to a place called Maham near Compiegne where "Joan of Arc" was captured. There were two high towers about 300 feet tall at this site.

We were told that we were going into action and were loaded back into the "40 and 8" railway cars. We didn't hesitate in loading because everyone was anxious to get revenge on the Krauts (Germans). We traveled until the night of October 24th and unloaded in the vicinity of a place called Florence. We were in hearing distance of the big guns on the battlefront. We could see the sky light up at night from the gunfire in the distance. After hiking through several evacuated small towns that had been shelled and torn up with no living beings remaining, we came to what was called headquarters. This is the place where our Major and General were stationed, that is, behind the front lines and out of the range of the German big guns. We stayed here one night and day. The second night the Chaplain preached us a sermon on having courage and being brave. He told us that we were fighting for a good cause. I think we all agreed with him.

We didn't know what became of our hard-booted Captain Chandler until now. We found out that he got to drinking and lost his commission. He was sent back to the States, where many of the commissioned officers probably wanted to be.

The morning of October 25th, we were all loaded into covered trucks, which held about 35 men. The trucks were lined up one right behind the other as far as one could see. The roads were so torn up that it took us all day to travel about ten miles. Just at dark, we unloaded in the small town of Flayoville. This town was probably less than ten miles from the German Artillery emplacements and was well within their range. The buildings were all partially destroyed by the big guns and we found no living humans present. Our top sergeant returned from the front and brought the word from our new captain that we would move into action on the front lines the next morning. We were ordered not to make a light of any kind. Our big problem in the dark was to find a place to sleep. We didn't know exactly where we were and it was I managed to get in one of the half torndown buildings with several other boys. About eight o'clock that night the Germans started firing their big guns and dropped a number of shells on what was left of this little town. We could hear when the big guns turned a shell loose. They had this place zeroed in. We were looking for one to drop on us at any moment. Some of the boys wanted to get out of the building, but there was no safe place to go to. It is needless to say that I slept very little. Morning finally came. The rain had stopped and there was a beautiful sunrise. The first thing we saw in the morning was four dead Frenchmen laying in the road near us. Some of their heads, legs and arms were blown off. These men were driving a truck to the front during the night when one of the German shells got them.

It seemed funny to us that we waited until daylight to finish our trip to the front lines and not taking advantage of darkness in travel. We started right down the main big road and every once in a while a German shell would scream over us. When we heard a shell coming, we would all fall where we were or get in the road ditch if possible. After several hours of hiking on the main highway, we got off and crossed over an open field, went over a hill, and stopped in a ravine. We dug some holes in the side of the hill for our Vickers machine guns. Here we joined the 82nd "All American" Division. Most of the boys from this division were from the New England states. We were sent to replace some of the boys that had been killed or wounded in this division. We stayed in this ravine while the others were on guard duty just over the top about fifty feet away. I was put on guard duty the next morning. By now I was ready for action and not worried about what could happen to me. I was placed on a machine gun with a boy that had been on the firing line about three months. He surely didn't care what became of him. Every now and then he would raise his head to see what he could see. Everly time he did this the German bullets from their machine guns would come whizzing over our place. We were never able to precisely locate their emplacements. Our confidence would get a big boost when one of our own American Aviators would periodically fly over us.

At this place we were very close to the German big gun emplacements. Some of the shells were hitting in our area, but, most would pass screaming high above our heads. Sometimes we imagined we could see the shells in the air. Each big shell sounded like a freight train passing over.

We stayed at this location until the evening of October 28th when we got orders to move out of what we called "no man's land". That night while hiking, we ran into barbed wire, fell into shell holes, and God only knows whereall we went. After midnight, we stopped behind a hill. The big shells fell all around us here the rest of the night. We had to use our gas masks at the break of day because of a gas shell scare. Our breakfast was sent up to us in a two-wheeled cart that was drawn by two mules. When we were lined up to go to the cart to get our food, a big shell fell nearby and hit one of our ammunition dumps. When this happened, we lost our food, for the mules and the cart headed back to where they came from. Artillery shells had been stacked in piles along the road like cordwood (ammunition dumps).

Later in the day, we moved again, this time going through some of the battle grounds in the Argonne Forest where some of the most intense fighting of the war took place. This was the most torn up place that I had ever seen.

Trees up to two feet in diameter had been mowed off by machine gun bullets about two feet above the ground, just as if a saw had cut them down. In addition, to make things worse, it had rained quite a bit and the white and gray mud was over our shoe tops.

After hiking all day through this mess, we came to a halt and were told that we had been placed into reserve status. But, as far as I could tell we were just about in the same fix as we were the night before. I tried to sleep in the mud that night. I had no idea where the other boys were for it was very dark. At about four o'clock in the morning the American artillery turned loose a loud continuous fire that lasted until about 6:00 a.m. I then heard that this was the last big drive to be made before we hit the German border. The artillery fire was to last 72 hours, but for some reason it stopped. We found out later that our boys had advanced so rapidly that our artillery was accidently dropping on some of them and, therefore, had to be stopped. Reports got to us that our Major had been killed in our last action. We heard unofficially that it was done by our own men.

That night we saw something that we had not seen in a long time; that is, trucks, cars, and motorcycles with their light burning. We knew then that we were out of range of the German big guns. We stayed here from October 31st to November 3rd and then we moved to another place. We could still hear the noise of the artillery fire in the distance, however, the firing of the guns was less frequent.

On the 11th of November, after hiking several hours we passed some French soldiers working on the road. They began yelling to us in French "Finie la guerre!!!", meaning "the war is over". We were so tired and disgusted that this yelling at us made us angry. We thought they were joking the way they said it. Later in the day we found out for sure that the war was over.

The war might have been over, but, we couldn't tell any difference because we hiked all that day only resting fifteen minutes out of every hour, until about eight o'clock that night. We stayed in a little village that night after hiking about 25 miles. We got up early the next morning, had breakfast, started hiking again. We hiked all day until about 9 o'clock that night, a distance of about 30 miles. We were to stay at a designated village each night, but orders must have been mixed up for this night because when we got to the place, another outfit was already there.

While we were doing all of the hiking, several big trains passed us that were loaded with French soldiers. This made us all very angry because the French were riding, while the American had to hike. By November the 13th most of us were completely exhausted. Our feet were so sore that many of us thought it impossible wo walk any further. The commanding officer gave orders for those who could not walk any further to wait and he would send a truck to pick us up. We stayed there all day, but no truck came. Another group of boys arrived at the village in the night. Their officer told us no trucks were going to pick us up, and that we had better start out to find our company or we would be subject to a Court-Martial. We told him that we had had nothing to eat all day, so he was kind enough to let us get something to eat from his kitchen and spend the night with his group.

Bright and early on November 14th, we started out on our sore feet hiking to look for our company. The only thing we had to go on was that we knew the road they started out on. Every group of boys we passed, we would inquire about our company. By this method we at least knew the direction they were going. We hiked until we came upon a general headquarters late in the afternoon. We found out from them where our company was. They told us we had gone about ten miles out of our way. We had hiked all day along what we thought was the Meuse River. It turned out to be a large canal off the Meuse that we should have crossed. We reversed our steps and found our company just before supper was to be served. We saved nothing by waiting and had hiked an extra twenty miles on our very sore feet. Well, the rest of the boys in our company really gave us the "horse laugh".

We were then moved to a rest camp where we stayed until April 1919. I have no complaints about the rest camp. We spent a great deal of time getting acquainted with the friendly French people. I received a two week pass to the resort city of Avignon, which is on the Rhone River in the Mediterranean Sea area. I enjoyed the two weeks. We departed France from Bordeaux, and after a fourteen day voyage, we landed back at New York.

We left New York shortly and traveled by train to Camp Shelby, Mississippi to be discharged. The governor of Mississippi had been mis-informed and thought that our outfit was a Mississippi group of "Doughboys" so they had a big welcome party for us including a big barbecue. They were nice enough to go through with it even though we were the wrong group.

I received my discharge on May 24, 1919, and was given enough money to travel back to my home in Shreveport, Louisiana. I bought a suitcase at a local store to carry my few things in. While waiting for the train, it came a big rain. When I tried to pick up my new suitcase, which was made of paper, it fell apart and scattered my things out on the wet ground. I didn't fuss because I was so happy to be alive and healthy, out of the army and on my way home to see my wife, Rosalie, and our five month old first child, John Henry Rose, III". At least this situation didn't in any way compare with being in the rain and mud of the Meuse-Argonne battle area and not knowing when a German bullet or shell might get you.

I am proud to have been an "American Doughboy" and to have had a chance to serve my country "The United States of America".

In 1835, a group of Germans under the leadership of "Countess von Leon", established a colony seven miles northeast of Minden, Louisiana (Webster Parish Road 114) in what was then Claiborne Parish. For thirty-seven years, the colony operated on a communal system, each man performing work according to his talent and interest.

This settlement was the culmination of the dream of "Count von Leon" who died of yellow fever at Grand Ecore, Louisiana before reaching the rolling hills of north Louisiana. He and his followers left Germany because of their desire for individual rights.

Descendants of the colonists, Mr. Chester Krouse and Miss Ruby Krouse, with the consent of Mrs. Chester Krouse, donated one acre of colony land to the Webster Parish Police Jury October 17, 1973. Only three of the original buildings remain on the site; the cabin occupied by the countess and the kitchen-dining hall. A replica of the old smokehouse has been erected on the spot where the original one stood. All three buildings contain many interesting items which were used by the Germantown settlers. These are labeled for your convenience. The map on the porch of the main cabin indicates the location of the numerous buildings, barns, work houses, orchard, and other points of interest when the colony was in operation.

The large room in the Countess' cottage still has small bits of the original wall paper clinging to the walls. The gracious and refined "Countess von Leon" ordered the paper from New Orleans so that the rough walls could be covered. It was in this room that many young ladies from Minden received piano instruction from the talented Countess.

Above the settlement, on a quiet hill surrounded by beautiful old trees, is the small well-kept cemetery which holds the remains of many of the early settlers. The tombstones reveal places of birth in Germany, and their dates often tell the sad story of early death. There were some pioneers, however, who were fortunate enough to survive the hardships of the early years, and who lived to bear the children whose descendants are a valuable part of our life today.

The Germantown Museum opened to the public 10 May 1975 and thousands from 44 states and 12 foreign countries have visited.

Open Wednesday through Saturday-9:00 A.M. till 5:00 P.M., Sunday 1:00 P.M. to 6:00 P.M. Will open for special groups on Monday or Tuesday, appointment only. A small fee is charged and group rates available

The citizens reflect with pride the rich heritage of the past as they look forward to a future filled with even greater accomplishments and progress.

On March 12, 1979, Germantown was placed on the official list of the Nation's cultural resources worthy of preservation by the U. S. Department of Interior, Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service.

On a balmy day in the spring of 1993, Mrs. Barbara Engle, who lives in Minden, and Mrs. Ethel Krause copied the Germantown Cemetery. Spaces that were not marked were counted and given to Mrs. Rita (L.P.) Krouse, and she in turn supplied a list of names that are buried but not marked. She also advised us that in 1934 markers were placed on graves by family members, but there are no names on them. The following are still unmarked:

OAKLAND CEMETERY

Oakland Cemetery is one of the oldest cemeteries in Shreveport, Louisiana. It was accepted for listing in the NATIONAL REGISTER OF HISTORIC PLACES in 1977. Part of the land was donated by the widow of William Bennett and later James Cane of Cane Bennett Bluff.

It is one of the most attractive park-like areas in the city. It is like a trip down memory lane to walk along its many paths. Many of the city's earliest pioneers are buried here, including 14 early mayors, several clergymen, judges and Confederate veterans and victims of the yellow fever epidemics in 1853 and 1873.

There is a special section at the northeast corner, set aside for members of the Hebrew (Jewish) faith. Headstones there carry inscriptions in Hebrew and are decorated with the seven-branched menorah. When the cemetery was laid out over a century ago, an area just to the left of the east gate and next to the Jewish section was designed as "a place for the friendless" probably for those whose remains were unclaimed by any relatives. (THE GENIE Vol. 12, 1978 and Volumes 16 and 17 1982-1983)

This cemetery listing was published in 1982 and 1983, alphabetically, but did not run past the letter F. We are publishing it now in its entirety by Section and Lot No. in order to obtain the genealogical connection between families. Also to list the Jewish and Friendless sections separately.

Confederate veterans are buried also in the cemetery, but many do not have a marker, and are only listed in the Sexton's report for Shreveport. This list follows and sections are indicated.

Recently ALTGA has received letters and requests for information on this cemetery, which gives us another good reason to publish. We owe much thanks to members of ALTGA, Billy Randolph, Mary Slimer, Mary Jewel Moore and Ennis Tipton, especially Billy Randolph who submitted the cemetery list for printing.

FORTSONS UNDER THE SAINT ANDREWS CROSS OF THE CONFEDERACY

(Civil War information supplied by our Ark-La-Tex member, Merrill Williams of Diamond Bar, CA. See Cemetery Record in April 1987 and "My Fortson Family" in First Quarter, 1993 of the Genie.)

In his RECORDS OF LOUISIANA CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS AND CONFEDERATE COMMANDS Andrew B. Booth has compiled "Louisiana Fortsons in the Civil War". However, only that F. M. Fortson was, in June 1865 "a conscript, unassigned rolls of Prisoners of War. Residence in Harrison County, Texas." He does give credit to this Francis Marion Fortson's uncles and to his cousins. The exception was William T. Fortson, Major in the Mexican War, who served under his son, "Captain Jack" at Mansfield and on April 18, 1864, at the Battle of Sabine Crossroads. Here General Richard Taylor, outnumbered and retreating from General W. P. Banks' planned invasion of Texas, with the help and push of the DeSoto Parish defenders, turned suddenly and sent the Union forces reeling.

These Fortson cousins and their rank and commands were:

Andrew Jackson Fortson, Captain, Company F., 19th Louisiana Infantry.

- F. P. Fortson, Private, Company A., 1st Battalion, Texas-Mississippi Cavalry.
- W. R. Fortson, Private, Company H., 17th Louisiana Infantry.
- J. M. Fortson, Private, Company B., 1st Battalion, Louisiana Infantry
- P. E. Fortson, Private, Company F., 9th Louisiana Infantry.
- E. H. Fortson, Private, Company D., 2nd Louisiana Infantry.

When the last listed Fortson re-enlisted it was not for "Three years or the war" but a dedicated "Forty years or the war". For him it was to be the end of the war. Wounded at Manassas in 1862, soon after his re-enlistment, he was mortally wounded.

Perhaps the most remarkable service for the Confederacy was rendered by Marion's uncle, Private Aaron J. Fortson (also A. B. Fortson) of the Louisiana 2nd Cavalry Corp. Captured and paroled in Louisiana, in 1862, he was wounded at Natchitoches the next year and, in 1864, captured and released in a prisoner exchange at Red River Landing in 1864.

Sergeant and Captain Jeptha I. Fortson won his promotion in the field. He served in Company H., 2nd Louisiana Infantry. Enlisting at New Orleans in May of '61, he assumed command as Captain in March of 1862. He was wounded on July first, Malvern Hill, Virginia and served in that state until captured at Fishers' Hill in September of 1864. He had soldiered for over four years when he was released from prison at Fort Delaware after his oath of allegiance to the United States on June 14, 1865.

William G. Fortson of Company F., 19th Louisiana Infantry enlisted at Corinth, Mississippi before the Battle of Shiloh and Pittsburg Landing. Hospitalized at Enterprise, Mississippi from the fall of '62 until early '63, he reappeared as Company Sergeant at Pollard, Alabama that year. Later he went home on furlough and received his parole in Shreveport in June of '65.

Receiving their paroles with their brother, William, were Washington P. Fortson, Private of Company H., 2nd Louisiana Infantry, who after recovering from his sickness at Culpepper, C. H. was wounded at Sharpsburg, Maryland. He then served in the Trans-Mississippi Army. The last discharged brother listed, Texan, Elijah Richardson Fortson, Private, 21st Texas Cavalry, rode with Major William N. Walton as one of the First Texas Lancers, and under Col. George W. Carter.

The last of Marion's uncles to be mentioned, was in the summer of '61, one of the first to answer the call of the Confederacy. The Reverend Roderick R. Fortson, at Camp Monroe, joined Company F., 9th Louisiana Infantry. Within a year, he was promoted to Sergeant. He then returned to DeSoto Parish on a series of leaves. He is believed to have been at Mansfield, Louisiana's Battle of Sabine Crossroads that saved Shreveport from occupation.

In the "Greater Fortson Family" there were others who served. In the book Texas in the War - 1861 - 1865 compiled by Wright and Simpson, T. G. Davenport is shown as the delegate to the Texas Succession Convention from Panola County. This fifty-two year old planter from South Carolina had lived in Deep East Texas, near Bethany, since 1838. His signature, alphabetically, is shown as one of the first on the succession document that produced a 557 to 5 February vote of approval. Statewide the vote was seventy-five percent favoring this action, raising "The Flag with the Cross of Saint Andrew over Texas."

One of the sons of this Confederate patriot was Isaac Newton Davenport, who in 1850, married Virginia A. E. Respess in Harrison County. Their children, Rebecca, Sarah and Isabella, were born by 1855. Within a few years, Isaac passed away. On May 15, 1850, Virginia married Francis Marion Fortson, and they settled on the Davenport Plantation in the Bethany-Elysian Fields area. Before the Civil War, two Fortson children, Elijah and Elizabeth, were born. As mother and step-father of T. C. Davenport's grandchildren, the Fortson parents linked arms with the Davenports in the grand cause.

Texas volunteer, Francis Marion Fortson, was elected captain of his company early in the Civil War. It is believed he served during the War of the Southwest, in 1862, also the upper Rio Grande-from victory at Valverde to frustration in Apache Canyon in New Mexico. It is documented that he spent the last days of the war in Louisiana. With General Thomas Green's cavalry and Walker's Brigade the Texans helped General Taylor turn back the Union's Red River invasion. Next, with the help of the twelve pounder brass howitzers, captured in the Battle of Valverde, on April 9, 1864, they fought the Yankees to a standstill at Pleasant Hill, LA. Then, as General Kirby took the main force north of Shreveport, the Texas Cavalry joined General Polignac's infantry to harass the Yankee troops back to Grand Ecore. Then they kept the ships and guns of Admiral Porter in disarray as they all retreated to Alexandria and down the Red River.

There were many Fortsons who fought bravely under the "Crossed Bars and Blaze of Stars" for the Confederacy. These were the men, and boys, who became men, who rose from the land along the Sabine and Red Rivers to defend the Fortson family's freedom and their antebellum way of life.

BOOK REVIEWS

By Trenkins McClain

TITLE: "A.K.A." (Also Known As) by Sandi Garrett.

ORDER FROM: Cherokee Woman Publishing, P. O. Box 48, Spavinaw, OK 74366.

COST: $15.00 postpaid.

This book is a real jewel for anyone doing Cherokee Indian Research. The author gives a very brief description with the date taken of the many Censuses and Rolls taken from the 1835 Census to the Guion Miller Rolls. The main focus of this book is the alphabetical cross-referenced listing of the Cherokee names which researchers find so difficult to obtain. An example is the good old Anglo-Saxon name of Daugherty which is Chul-Cul-LA in Cherokee, and is found listed both ways in this book. A real break through for anyone researching the name. Our thanks to Sandi Garrett for this much needed work. Size  $8\frac{1}{2} \times 11$ . Paperbound. 42 pages.

TITLE: MARRIAGE AND DEATH NOTICES, CADDO PARISH, LOUISIANA AND ENVIRONS, 1843-1871 by Juanita Davis Cawthon.

ORDER FROM: Author, 844 Acklen St., Shreveport, LA 71104.

COST: $17 postpaid

These marriage and death notices were extracted from the following newspapers: Caddo Gazette, Shreveport Journal, Shreveport News, Shreveport Semi-Weekly News, Shreveport Daily News, Shreveport Sentinel, and The South-Western. They cover individuals who resided within about a 100 mile radius of Shreveport. This is a much needed source book for Caddo Parish researchers. Size  $8\frac{1}{2} \times 11$ . Paperbound. 115 pages. Full-name index.

TITLE: ABSTRACTS OF CHOCTAW COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI RECORDS by Betty C. Wiltshire.

ORDER FROM: Author, P O Box 408A, Carrollton, MS 38917.

COST: $18 plus $2 postage. MS residents only add 7% sales tax.

Due to courthouse fires in 1874 and 1881 very few records are available to researchers in this county. A deed book dated 1836-1868 has recently been found. Although some deeds are missing this is still a major find and resource for this county. This book comtains abstracts from this deed book, tax lists for 1835 and 1844, some early marriages from newspapers, marriage book A and wills. This book will be of great benefit to researchers as it indexes witnesses, bondsmen and others included in documents that are not indexed in the original books. Size  $5\frac{1}{2} \times 8\frac{1}{2}$ . Paperbound. 196 pages. Full name index.

Note: Vol 6 of the Shapley Connection donated by Brian J. L. Berry, P. O. Box 83-2130, Richardson, TX 75083-2130 has been donated to Shreve Memorial Library. (Quarterlies sent for review will be reviewed once, any sent thereafter will be mentioned as donated but not reviewed. TM.)

TITLE: THE DEVORE/DE VORE FAMILIES 1500-1992 by Betty M. Mann.

ORDER FROM: Author, 1819 Fletcher, Lansing, MI 48910-9024.

COST: $65 postpaid.

The author begins this monumental work with a Table of Contents listing by year the 74 major families presented in this book and includes a listing of orphan Devore/De Vore women. The families appear to have originated in France and the author includes early passenger lists. The easily understood numbering system is thoroughly explained and the families are brought forward generation by generation. As in any work of this kind more information is given on some families than others, however, the author has made an effort to tie families into the immigrant lines. If you are a Devore/De Vore researcher of whatever spelling, and the author gives 86 acceptable spellings from Davor through Duvoort, then you need this work. It amounts to an encyclopedia of the researchers on each family. Besides the separate every-name index, indexes by state, foreign country and by city, makes it very easy to locate the person you are interested in. Size 8½ x 11½. Hardbound. 794 pages. Multiple indexes.

TITLE: SCOTT COUNTY VA CEMETERY RECORDS, Vol. 6 compiled by Phyllis Louise Willits Peterson.

ORDER FROM: Author, Rt. 4, Box 4302, Hermiston, OR 97839.

COST: $29 postpaid.

This book was donated to the ARK-LA-TEX Genealogical Assn., by Marguerite R. Van Etten of Plantation, FL. People were not buried in cemeteries in alphabetical order and this author has listed people as buried row by row with an index for locating them among their family members and friends. Included is a county map with additional maps giving locations for the 365 cemeteries. There is a section containing 138 photos of tombstones arranged in alphabetical order. A very pleasant addition to this type of compilation. This is the last of a series and the author has added updates for previous volumes. The author also says the final volume will be a master index of all 6 volumes. Size  $i\frac{1}{2} \times 11$ . Spiral bound. 377 pages. Cemetery and every-name index.

TITLE: THE SHAPLEIGH, SHAPLEY AND SHAPPLEY FAMILIES, A COMPREHENSIVE GENERALOGY 1635-1993 by Brian J. L. Berry.

ORDER FROM: Author, P. O. Box 82-2130, Richardson, TX 75083-2130.

COST: $35.

The Shapley name originates in Devonshire and is listed in the Domesday Book of 1086 in the Parish of North Bovey. The earliest family was recorded in the Calendar of Rent rolls in 1270, and families continued to be on various lists and rolls throughout the 1300's, 1400's and 1500's. The immigrant ancestors are then picked up in the early 1600's in America. The Table of Contents gives an excellent listing of the scope of this work beginning with Devonshire Origins, Diffusion in America, Alexander Shapleigh of Kingsweare and Kittery, Nicholas Shaples of Charleston, Philip Shapleigh of Northumberland Co., VA, David Shapley of Marblehead. Reuben Shapley of the Isles of Shoals, William Thomas Shap (p)ley of Tennessee and Mississippi, William H. Shapley: One or two?, The Shapleys from Chudleigh, James Shapley of Denbury and Houston, The Shapleys Who Originally Weren't, Loose Ends and Puzzles, and the living descendants. Each of these lines are brought as nearly as possible to the present day. The Living Descendants section gives names and 1992 addresses of Shapleys by families and then a section called The Shapleys Who Weren't lists people who apparently can't be placed in one of the family groups. If you are a Shapley, this is definitely the book for you. Size 9½ x 6½. Hardbound. 534 pages. Full-name index.

TITLE: BOSSIER PARISH HISTORY - THE FIRST 150 YEARS 1843-1993 by Clifton D.

Cardin.

ORDER FROM: Not given.

COST: Not given.

The author has used narrative form to cover all aspects of Bossier's history. Some of the articles are only a paragraph or two, but some cover many pages. Beginning with the Indian Legends and ending with 20th Century Barksdale Air Force Base and Louisiana Downs, every phase of Bossier's history has been covered. Some of the subjects include transportation from rivers and bayous to present day autos, roads and planes; the War between the States with company rolls and histories; the police juries, jails, courthouses and politics; the disasters including fevers, floods and tornados; farming, hunting, and the postal service are all covered. Many names, dates and places are given and source material cited which adds a great deal to this history. Many old pictures and some early maps add to ones enjoyment in just reading this account and the author has added a list of depositories for anyone interested in further research in the area. Size 8½ x 11. Paperbound. 243 pages. Index.

TITLE: MILAN COUNTY, TEXAS IN THE CIVIL WAR by James E. Williams.

ORDER FROM: Author, Rt. 1, Box 864, Milano, TX 76556-9759.

COST: $14 postpaid. TX residents add .81 sales tax.

This is a listing by Unit and Company of the Confederate Soldiers, Texas State Troops and Government employees of Milam County, with all available information. This sometimes gives a description of the soldier, occupation, when he entered service, when and where wounded or killed, transfers, promotions and sometimes his job or duties. This is an excellent Confederate Service Source book. Size 8 x 10½. Stockbound, stapled. 68 pages. Every-name index.

TITLE: A CONCISE HISTORY OF THE INTRODUCTION OF PROTESTANTISM INTO MISSISSIPPI AND THE SOUTHWEST by Rev. John G. Jones, Indexed by Jack Curtis.

ORDER FROM: Jack Curtis, 2521 Mourning Dove, Greenville, MS 38701.

COST: $25 postpaid.

This is a reproduction reprint of Rev. Jones' book, published in 1866. Rev. Jones, along with the history of Protestantism also gives us a history of the area and the people who lived in MS and LA. Biographies of ministers are given with details of their families for 3 or 4 generations in some cases. There are many stories of the early settlers living in the area and details of their lives and living conditions. Beginning in the mid-1700's through the Territorial period and into statehood, the Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian and Protestant Episcopal Churches are traced. Anyone lucky enough to find a story of your ancestors in this book will indeed add flesh to the bare bones of your ancestry. We thank Mr. Curtis for the reprint and index, which makes this rare material available and acsessable. Size 8½ x 11. Plastic covered soft binding. 155 pages. Every-name index.

TITLE: ONLY THE NAMES REMAIN, Vol. 1 FLINT DISTRICT by Sandi Garrett.

ORDER FROM: Author, P. O. Box 48, Spavinaw, OK 74366.

COST: $15 postpaid.

With this publication, the author has done a great service for people doing Cherokee research. First she gives an explanation of the Drennen roll of 1851 and the Guion Miller Applications taken from 1906 to 1910 followed by an 1895 map of the Cherokee Nation and a 1993 map of Oklahoma. The introduction explains that in 1851, most Cherokees did not have a white name or a surname, but by 1906, they had one or the other. Therefore, this listing is invaluable. The author gives the Drennen Roll group number and names of family members then where possible they are linked to families on the Guion Miller applications, and how that person is related to the Drennen Roll family plus the Guion Miller application numbers. In this Flint District, 668 families are listed. The author hopes to publish a new volume every 6 months. Size  $8\frac{1}{2} \times 11$ . Spiral Bound. 116 pages. Index.

TITLE: CHEROKEE & PIONEER ANCESTRY - ANI-YUN-WI-YA (Real People) by Sandi Garrett, A.K.A. Cherokee Woman.

ORDER FROM: Cherokee Woman Publishing, P. O. Box 48, Spavinaw, OK 74366.

COST: $20 postpaid.

This is the family history of the author. She has done an excellent job tracing her Cherokee ancestors and gives copies of the Cherokee Roll, applications for enrollment as Cherokee Citizens, letters written to and by the Commission to the Five Civilized Tribes, affidavits of births, and many other interesting documents. These documents show the Indian researcher what is available and how it can be used to prove ancestry. The Indians married "white men" as they are called, and these inter-mixed lines are traced. Some of the AR; Starr thru AR, and PA to Ireland in 1648; Harlan thru AR, TN, PA, Ireland and England prior to 1625; and the Adair line thru Scotland to Ireland in 1652. Many other lines are also traced. There are many pictures, ancestor charts, maps, documents and most interesting are the narrative stories about so many of the people bringing them to life for the reader. Size 8½ x 11. Spiral bound. 146 pages. Document index, picture index, full-name index.

TITLE: WINDERWEEDLE CONNECTIONS by Judi Winderweedle.

FREE OFFER OF HELP

(Information shared from our member Martha Coleman in Yakima, WA.)

If your Scottish ancestor is said to have come to America ca 1757-63, and was born before 1741, he may have been a soldier with Col. Simon Fraser's 78th Highlander Regt., which was recruited in the Inverness area, and came to fight the French in Louisburg, Quebec, Montreal, etc., and remained in America after discharge in 1763.

Walter H. McIntosh, Box 214, Topsfield, MA 01983, has regimental rosters listing all officers and private soldiers in the 14 companies of the regiment, and separate lists of the 170 men who remained in North America at their own choice after discharge. A number remained in Canada and married French-Canadian women, others trickled down into New England and New York. If this might be a solution to your ancestor's arrival, send SASE (#10 envelope) and the ancestor's full name to McIntosh.

ORPHAN TRAIN RIDERS

Genealogists should know that between 1854 and 1929, 150,000 homeless children were placed on trains in New York and Boston and sent west. By 1910 Texas had taken 1,527 children from the Children's Aid Society in New York, and Illinois took 9,172 by the same time. Louisiana also took several thousand from New York.

Today, The Orphan Train Heritage Society of America, Inc., 4912 Trout Farm Road, Springdale, AR 72764, is a good resource when searching for information on orphans for it has over 2,000 documents on "placed out" children. Be sure to send an SASE. The Society holds reunions, meetings and gatherings. The most recent meetings took place in Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas.

HERE COMES THE PACK PEDDLER!

Here comes the pack peddler! Here comes the pack pedler! This was the cry of children playing in the yard in a small Tennesse Town near Memphis on a certain day in the late 1850s. The children as well as adults ran to meet the dark eyed man with the big smile and the large black oilcloth pack on his back. It was always exciting to see the things he had in that pack. There would be gloves, stockings, lengths of cloth, pins, bracelets, fine laces, shawls, barlow knioves, combs, and many other fine thiings. This particular pack peddler was Benedict Lowenstein who was born in Darmstadt, Germany and was of the Jewish Faith. He immigrated to America in 1850 and located in New Orleans then worked his way to Paris, Tennessee. He opened a small store which he later located in Memphis in 1855. As a pack peddler he sold his wares in Mississippi and South Arkansas in Winter and in Summer he sold them in Tennessee, Kentucky, and North Arkansas.

The first pack peddlers in America were New Englanders called Conneticut Yankees. After the immigration of 1848 they left pack peddling to Germans. Swedes, and later Jews. After 1880 Jews from Russia, Austria, Poland, and Hungary immigrated. They brought little money and stayed with relatives until they could get started in business in some way. They bought packs that would weigh 120 pounds when filled with merchandise. They had 100 pound packs strapped across their shoulders and smaller packs to balance in front. There were wholesale dealers who would let them have $100 worth of merchandise on credit. They worked very hard walking through the heat of the sun in summer and the rain and snow in the winter. The peddler usually kept the same route and the people grew to know and love him. They looked forward to his coming as he not only brought merchandise that they needed and wanted but he also brought news of the community and sometimes the outside world. Often, after sales were made and his wares were back in his pack, the peddler would be invited in for a glass of cold cidar and ginger cakes. He would then chat about the people he had seen on his rounds and the different events that had taken place that he had heard about and after a few minutes he would leave to resume his peddling.

Pack Peddlers served a very useful purpose in those early years. Many of the things they sold from their packs while traveling around the countryside are now treasured possessions of the families who were served by these hard working Pack Peddlers.
